DREAM / ACCESSORIES

If you have sat on a chair lift in -30 wind chill you will know the value of spending money on good snowboarding gloves.

More durable than skiing gloves, they will stand up to the bashing they take from carrying your board. The three main types are regular gloves, mittens (which are warmer as your fingers give each other warmth) and spring/pipe gloves, thinner and cooler for warmer riding conditions.

DREAM OF RIDING

There is not much worse than having cold feet when out snowboarding. For this reason alone it's worth investing in a few pairs of decent purpose made snowboarding socks.

Feet can get sweaty and smelly when riding so unless you want to be about as popular as a fart in a lift with the mates you're sharing a room with, splash some cash and stock up!

DREAM / JACKETS/PANTS

Snowboard Jackets

First and foremost a snowboarding jacket should serve the purpose of keeping you warm dry and protected from all mother nature can throw at you. They get more technical every season with new features constanly arriving to market.

A decent jacket is an essential part of you snowboarding clothes wardrobe. More on jackets and what to look for when you are buying one coming soon!

Snowboard pants

Get a new pair of pants and all is good in the world! Well, maybe not quite but at least you won't have a cold and wet bum from sitting on the snow.

Modern pants have an endless choice of tech features. Just remeber any pants you buy should at the very least be hard wearing and water proof. To make sure you get a good pair you should get them from a speciality snowboarding retailer and not a sports shop where their quality may be lower.
